

Beginning Reading Skills—Getting Your Students Ready to Participate in the Literature-Based Programs Series Launchers and Reading for Success

Young readers need to have the basics of initial decoding in place before they can successfully receive instruction in beginning chapter books. We recommend beginning readers first learn the basics of decoding in reading programs such as Readers Club (Novel Ideas, Inc.), Reading Mastery K, I, and II (SRA), Read Well Beginning Levels (Sopris West), or the Primary Phonics Program (Educators Publishing) or any other phonics based basal before they begin working in chapter books.

The early curriculum maps at the bottom of this page offer schools a beginning sequence using Reading Mastery I and II Classic (SRA) and Readers Club (Novel Ideas, Inc.) as an example. The other reading programs that are recommended above can be used in the place of Reading Mastery. During the planning process, you can go back to earlier titles on the plan, but should not jump ahead if your students do not yet have the readability level to work in the materials at the instructional level. The readability levels designated are based on a teacher using the novel study instructionally as prescribed.

For example, it would not be appropriate to have students do the Series Launcher for Henry and Mudge if they are not reading at a mid-grade one readability instructionally (90% accuracy at 25-50 words per minute). They do not need to be reading at this level independently to participate in the novel study (95% accuracy at more than 50 words per minute). You may decide that you would like to have your students go back to do the Series Launcher for Mouse Tales if it was not taught earlier. This would be an appropriate instructional decision. However, to jump a student at this reading level ahead to Arthur Accused might place him or her at the frustration level.

Individualized curriculum plans can be developed for your school or district by the authors of these programs on request. Placement tests for all novel studies can be found on the Novel Ideas, Inc. website: novelideas-inc.com

Kindergarten

Language Arts

Reading Mastery I—Lessons 1-160

At Lesson 82 students can start Readers Club

Once students have finished RM Classic I or Signature K, they should go through the Level I Series Launchers in the following order:

Mouse Tales (SL) → Little Bear (SL) → Henry and Mudge: The First Book (SL) → Play Ball, Amelia Bedelia (SL)

*Note: High performing K groups who finish the sequence before the end of the year, can begin RM II Classic or Signature I.

Grade One

Language Arts

Reading Mastery II Classic or Signature I—Lessons 1-160

Students should go through the Level I and II Series Launchers in the following order:

Nate the Great and the Big Sniff (SL) (should have completed L. 75 of RM II Classic/Signature I) → Marvin Redpost: Kidnapped at Birth (SL) (should have completed L. 89 of RM II Classic/Signature I) → The One in the Middle is a Green Kangaroo (SL) → Arthur Accused (SL) → Genies Don't Ride Bicycles (SL) (should have completed L. 126 of RM II Classic/Signature I) → end of RM II Classic/Signature I.

Recommended Sequence Combining Series Launchers and Reading for Success

The following is a recommended sequence of instruction for schools who wish to use these novels as a trade-based reading program or to use it to supplement a basal reading program with unabridged novels and novel studies. During the planning process, you can go back to earlier titles on the plan, but should not jump ahead if your students do not yet have the readability level to work in the materials at the instructional level. The readability levels designated are based on a teacher using the novel instructionally as prescribed.

For example, it would not be appropriate to have students do the novel study for Holes if they are not reading at a mid-grade 4 level instructionally (90% accuracy at 80-100 words per minute). They do not need to be reading at this level independently to participate in the novel study (95% accuracy at 100-150 words per minute). You may decide that you would like to have your students go back to do the Series Launcher for If Your Name was Changed on Ellis Island to learn summary writing or to do Abby Takes a Stand because learning about the civil rights movement is part of your social studies curriculum. This would be an appropriate instructional decision. However, to jump a student at this reading level ahead to Island of the Blue Dolphins might place him or her at the frustration level.
