

Placement Test for Adventures in Language® III (2014 Edition)

When to Use the Program

Adventures in Language® III is an 80 lesson program that may be used after students have completed level two of this program or when they are at a beginning grade three reading level, and are able to pass the placement test.

It is not necessary for students to be able to read the materials independently. The lessons are designed to be teacher-directed. Students need to be able to repeat orally sentences the length of those used in the program.

Placement Testing

It's important to administer the placement test and to place students in the appropriate level of the program before teaching the first lesson. The placement test should be given to determine if the student has sufficient skills to enter the program at the third level.

Administering the Placement Test

The placement test may be administered to an entire class, in a small group, or individually.

Give each student a copy of Part 1 of the test. Read the instructions aloud to the students. If your students are familiar with proofreading marks they may use them to indicate where changes need to be made in the sentences. If your students are not familiar with the use of proofreading marks, they may make the changes by writing over the letters and inserting the punctuation marks. Emphasize the importance of copying correctly when the students write the sentences. Let students know that they will lose half a point for every additional error they make when they copy the sentences. Tell students that they have 15 minutes to complete Part 1 of the test.

The point value of each sentence in Part 1 is written after each sentence and after each set of lines.

Give each student a copy of Part 2 of the test. Read the instructions aloud to students. Remind the students to proofread and check their work. Tell students that they have 30 minutes to complete this part of the test.

Note: It is important to have students complete the test independently.

Scoring the Placement Test

Part 1: (Total Points Available—50)

Proofreading: Award 1 point for each error identified. Deduct 1 point for identifying as an error correct capitalization or punctuation.

Sentence copying: Award 1 point for each error corrected. Deduct ½ point for each copying error.

Part 2: (Total Points Available after applying weighting formula—50)

The evaluation of the paragraph is weighted in the following manner:

- 50% organization
- 30 % content
- 20 % mechanics

Using the identifiers on the scoring chart, award students the appropriate score for each element.

Example:

If a student demonstrated basic development in organization, award a score of 7. If the student demonstrated proficient development in content, award a score of 8. If the student demonstrated minimal development in mechanics award a score of 5. Enter the scores and multiply by the weighting factor. This student would receive a score of 3.45. Multiply 3.45 X10. This student would receive 34.5 points for Part 2.
